University of Galway

Your university, Ollscoil na Gaillimhe | University of Galway, was established in 1845 as Queen's College Galway. Today, University of Galway is one of Ireland's foremost centres of academic excellence. With over 18,000 students, it has a long established reputation of teaching and research excellence. University of Galway is situated on a beautiful riverside campus right in the heart of Galway city and by now you will have witnessed for yourself the extent of the recent building and modernisation programme. Academically, University of Galway is structured around Colleges and Schools. As a Law student you are a member of the College of Business, Public Policy and Law.

School of Law

Established in 1849, the School of Law at University of Galway delivers innovative legal education in a dynamic school dedicated to impactful, high quality legal research. With 800 undergraduate and postgraduate students and over 40 staff, the School emphasises student-focused, research-led teaching delivered in a supportive and intellectually challenging environment. It hosts the internationally renowned Irish Centre for Human Rights and the Centre for Disability Law & Policy; both centres with established reputations as world leaders in their fields. The School is passionate about research that meets the highest standards of scholarship, informs student learning and engages with current societal challenges, impacting public debate and informing government policy.

1. Teaching and Learning

The university is committed to providing students with a vibrant on-campus experience. Teaching will take place in person and online materials will act as a supplement to, but not replacement for the in-person learning experience.

IMPORTANCE OF ATTENDANCE

Attendance is not optional, but an obligatory requirement for students. Consistent attendance and participation in lectures and tutorials is the best way to get the most out of your education. There are many reasons why attendance is a key factor in your university experience:

- College semesters are short and it is easy to fall behind. Consistent attendance is the best method to avoid falling behind in your studies.
- High levels of engagement and activity in classes and coursework will make it more likely that students will acquire a high level of knowledge and understanding of their chosen subjects, feel confident in their abilities and experience less stress during assessments and be better prepared for subsequent years.
- Non-attendance may be considered de facto withdrawal from a course and students may be unable to proceed to examination or subsequent registration. It is essential that first-year students are made aware of this requirement.
- The student grant (SUSI) scheme requires that attendance is monitored and reported on.
- Similarly, fees are paid by the State on behalf of students on the implicit understanding that the students are fully participating in the programmes for which they are registered.
- Many Schools and programmes already register attendance at each class and this should be continued. It is necessary, at the very least, to take attendance at key (or random) stages in the semester which can be reported for each School to Colleges and then to Academic Council.
- Research has shown convincingly that poor attendance results in lower levels of achievement and a higher chance of failure and withdrawal from programmes.
- If students have any concerns regarding the quality of the teaching or learning experience in any of their scheduled classes (or other components of their modules) they should provide feedback using the various channels at their disposal (for example, module questionnaires, Class Reps, Liaison committees) so that any issues may be resolved or considered, as appropriate. Non-attendance is not a means of raising any such issues and may be interpreted, rather, as a reflection of student commitment levels.

- Such levels of engagement and activity will make it more likely that students will acquire a high level of knowledge and understanding of their chosen subjects, feel confident in their abilities and experience less stress during assessments and be better prepared for subsequent years.

The School of Law aims to support students to succeed in their degrees. Because of the importance of attendance, The School does engage in some targeted attendance monitoring in lectures and tutorials. The purpose of this is not to be punitive but supportive. We are acutely aware of the difficulties students may face when it comes to attendance (illness, care responsibilities, lack of accommodation etc). If we are aware of these issues, we can put in place supports to address them. Attendance monitoring is one way of doing this.

5.3 Withdrawing from a Programme

If you are thinking about withdrawing from your programme it is really important to speak to your Class Adviser who will discuss the difficulties you are encountering and perhaps reach a solution that enables you to continue.

If you decide that you have no other option then you may apply to de-register by filling in the online withdrawal form after you have completed the advised steps outlined in the Course Withdrawal process. If you have made the decision to withdraw it is important that you notify the School Office and your Programme Director to confirm your choice.

Further information on the withdrawal process, including the Student Withdrawal Policy and the online withdrawal form are available here: www.universityofgalway.ie/student-registry-helpdesk/our-services/coursewithdrawal/.

6. Year 3 of Your Degree

Students will choose to complete a Professional Work Placement or Study Abroad for the 3rd academic year of their 4-year Law degree. As the application process for the Professional Work Placement or Study Abroad takes place during the 2nd year of the degree, academic performance in 1st year is key to securing either a placement or a place abroad.

6.1 International Study Abroad and Studying Abroad under the ERASMUS Programme

Students who would like to spend a year of their law studies abroad may do so as part of the School's involvement in the ERASMUS and International Exchange Programmes. In Europe, some Law subjects are taught through English in reputable universities including University of Leuven in Belgium, University of Leiden and University of Groningen in Holland, Eötvös Loránd University, Budapest in Hungary and Jagiellonian University, Kraków in Poland.

For those with a high standard of spoken and written French, courses can be taken in University of Aix-en-Provence, University of Montesquieu - Bordeaux IV, University of Clermont-Ferrand, University of Poitiers and University of Toulouse; for those with German, University of Gottingen, University of Leipzig and University of Wurzburg; Spanish, University of Granada and University of Salamanca.

Students also have the opportunity of spending a year at the University of Iowa College of Law, Catholic University of America and other Universities in the United States, Shantou in China, University of Technology in Sydney, Australia, McGill University School of Law and Carleton University Department of Legal Studies in Canada. Places on both exchange programmes are limited.

N.B. Students who study Legal Irish will spend one semester studying at University of Galway's Gaeltacht campus in An Cheathrú Rua and one semester of professional work placement in an Irish-speaking environment.

Queries can be addressed by email to lawstudyabroad@universityofgalway.ie.

6.2 Professional Work Placement

Work placement brings together learning in the classroom with learning on the job. It is intended to give participating students a practical appreciation of the needs and modus operandi of the workplace, thereby broadening and significantly improving their knowledge. Students will take new and enriched experience back to the classroom, enriching their own education and that of their classmates.

Host organisations assist students in gaining diverse and unique insights into the workings of their organisation. This gives students an opportunity to cultivate innovation and competencies ideally suited for the ever-evolving global workplace.

The School is partnering with nationally and internationally recognised law firms and organisations who are committed to working with us to ensure the best possible work experience. Students will be fully supported by their Placement Officer and have interview preparation supports available to them in advance of their work placement.

You will be advised by your Placement Officer on each employer's working policy for placement, be it on-site, hybrid or remote working, as jobs are shared with you.

6.2.1 Work Placement

Students work full time hours during this placement and it is an academically credited programme. The placements will be in large commercial law firms, general practice law firms, corporate legal environments, legal research in a public sector organisation, with barristers, international non-governmental organisations, United Nations bodies or developmental agencies and other human rights bodies. Some firms that have offered placements include Eversheds Sutherland, Arthur Cox, William Fry, Matheson, A&L Goodbody, Philip Lee, AMOSS Solicitors, Maples and Calder LLP, IBM, Berwick Solicitors, RDJ Galway, Damien Tansey Solicitors, MacDermott & Allen Solicitors, Michael Houlihan & Partners Solicitors, Fidelma Bane Solicitors, Department of Justice and Equality, Irish Council Civil Liberties, ISPCC, Irish Water, Irish Refugee Council, Threshold and the Centre for Disability Law and Policy at University of Galway. Students may apply for international work placement opportunities, including Lex Field and FundRock in Luxembourg.

6.2.2 Duration and Working Hours of Placement

Students are required to pursue a placement for eight months from the start of September to the end of April inclusive.

The exact structure of the working week will be declared by the employer on the job description at the point that the placement opportunity is advertised. The working week may be structured in accordance with the business needs and may for example involve a regular working week (9am-5pm, Monday- Thursday/ Friday) or shift work and irregular hours.

7. The Library

Effective use of the library is a crucially important part of legal education. Students should take advantage of every opportunity to familiarise themselves with the library and the services it offers. Nowadays, many excellent services are available through electronic sources (located on the ground floor of the library). Training sessions are available and details may be obtained from the information desk in the Library and at <http://library.universityofgalway.ie>.

9. Examinations (including Repeats and Deferrals)

Students must present for the first sitting of their examinations. Repeat examinations are confined to those who fail at the first attempt or who have permission to defer. However, it is important to note that deferral of any examination is a very serious matter and students will not normally be granted a deferral except for the most serious of situations.

Deferrals are only permitted at the discretion of the Head of School, on bona fide grounds of ill-health, or bereavement of close family members, or serious personal circumstances which can be independently verified.

Requests for exam deferral must be made on a special Deferral Application Form. Students can request this form by emailing the School of Law office at law@universityofgalway.ie. Students must provide documentary letters, medical certificates or other support material from medical doctors, student counsellors or others along with their application. The School reserves the right to verify the stated grounds for deferral.

Only the modules listed on the form will be considered for deferral and students should contact law@universityofgalway.ie to be informed of the outcome of their application.

10. Lecture and Tutorial Attendance

Specific lecture times and venues for you will be indicated on your timetable.

All current timetables are published on the School of Law website: <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/business-public-policy-law/school-of-law/students/currentstudents/timetables/>

10.1 What should I do during a lecture?

- Focus on listening to the lecturer
- Make notes of the main themes and points made
- Avoid the temptation to write down everything that is said

Lecturers make learning materials available on Canvas. The notes are a teaching tool and are not intended to be a comprehensive summary of the lecture and should not be treated as such.

The aim of a lecture is not to give a definitive and comprehensive set of facts on the module that students will learn by rote. Instead, you are expected to supplement the lecture with reading and interpretations of your own, developing your own set of notes on a particular topic by reference to the lecture material and the recommended reading. Module outlines will give an estimated study time required in each module (please see individual module outlines but a workload of approximately 5-6 hours per week per module is typical).

Should you miss several lectures due to illness or for any other reason you should notify the lecturer concerned. It is your responsibility to inform yourself of the content of any lectures missed.

10.2 Tutorials

Lecturers will provide guidance as to the times, frequency and content of tutorials.

Tutorials are facilitated by a tutor who guides the tutorial and answers any questions you might have. Generally speaking, the tutorial discussion is structured around a set of questions and/or a case-study. It is vital that you prepare in advance for tutorials by completing the recommended reading and preparing notes to address the questions posed. As the questions and case-studies reflect the types of questions posed in examinations active participation in tutorials is also a valuable way to prepare for exams.

Before a tutorial you should:

- Review the relevant lecture
- Complete the required reading
- Prepare an answer to the tutorial questions
- Clarify what you do not understand and prepare questions to be raised during the tutorial

During a tutorial you should:

- Listen to the discussion on the material
- Make contributions on the material discussed
- Raise questions on issues you do not understand or wish to have clarified

10.3 CÉIM

CÉIM is an academic peer learning programme for 1st year Law students and is a joint initiative of the School of Law and the Students' Union.

How does it work?

You will meet weekly with your classmates throughout the academic year to learn from each other under the guidance of trained higher year Law student leaders, with input from academic staff.

Benefits of attending CÉIM

Make friends on your course

- Settle in smoothly to life at University of Galway
- Develop key learning and study skills
- Gain a deeper understanding of coursework
- Practice transferable skills and achieve the CÉIM Collaborative Learner digital badge

Research shows that students who attend CÉIM regularly achieve higher grades on average than those who do not.

How to take part

CÉIM sessions start the week of 30 September. Attendance is taken. Log into yourspace.universityofgalway.ie a few days before your sessions are due to start and click CÉIM in the left menu to see your CÉIM group information.

11. Advisory

It can be difficult adjusting to University life as well as being away from home and friends. There are people you can talk to within the School of Law and within the University of Galway wider community including the Student Health and the Counselling Services. You are encouraged to avail of any such services if you are finding it all a bit overwhelming and lonely.

All undergraduate law programmes have Class Advisers and Programme Directors who can refer you to other appropriate supports if necessary. Lecturers also set aside regular times for consultation with students and are usually circulated at the start of the academic year. You can contact lecturers by email to arrange an online meeting to discuss issues of concern to you.

The School of Law Administrative staff are available for short online appointments to answer queries you may have on your programme or registration. Please email law@universityofgalway.ie for further information.

12. Regulations for BCL, BLB, BLH, and BLC

Programmes are organised on a semester basis. The academic year is divided into two periods, called semesters, which are of approximately equal length (12 weeks each with the exception of the 11 week long Semester 1 in First Year). Programmes are organised into modules and carry a credit unit weighting (ECTS), or value, which reflects the extent and difficulty of the programme concerned. Modules are normally examined at the end of the semester in which the module was completed. Provisional results for Semester 1 are released mid-semester 2. These results, along with your Semester 2 results, are confirmed in June.

1. Full details of University Marks and Standards can be found on the University of Galway Examinations website. Please note that revisions to the Marks and Standards may occur during the year. The most up-to-date revisions can be found on: <https://www.universityofgalway.ie/exams/policies-procedures/>
2. Repeat Examinations will be held at the August Examination Session.
3. A candidate must have successfully completed 60 ECTS in First Year to proceed to the Second Year of the programme. The Pass standard is 40% in each module. Compensation will only be applied in cases where its application enables the student to successfully complete the programme as a whole. However, the year may be passed by compensation provided:
  - The aggregate mark for all modules of the year is at least 40%
  - No mark is below 35%
  - Not more than 15 ECTS have marks in range 35 – 39%

Note: Where one or more of these conditions have not been met each module where the mark is below 40% must be repeated. Marks of 40% and above are carried forward to the next session and are not repeatable.
4. Honours are awarded only on the aggregate performance to candidates who have successfully completed 60 ECTS, in accordance with the following standards:
First Class Honours, 70%; Second Class Honours Grade One, 60%;
Second Class Honours Grade Two, 50%; Third Class Honours, 40%.

5. The First Year Examination must be passed within two academic years from the date of entering the programme, except students who are permitted to transfer to the First Year of another programme, having failed in another school. They must pass the First Year Examination within one academic year of entering the programme.

6. Students who intend to seek entry to the Law Professions must inform themselves of the current requirements of the professional bodies. These requirements are subject to change. Listed below are the modules students must prepare for entrance examinations to the professional bodies (correct at the time of print, September 2024):
